HE WORE OLD BATTLE-SCARRED OUTFIT.

GEORGE G. BURLINGAME.
As he appeared in the parade today. He wore his old war uniform and carried the same old musket he used during his four years of service with the blue army.

WEARS THE OLD OUTFIT HE HAD IN DAYS OF WAR

George Burlingame Marches in Hat and Uniform and Carry Musket Half Century Old.

Equipped in heavy marching order as he tramped through the country with his regiment during the war, George G. Burlingame marched in the parade today.

The same old army hat, filled with bullet holes; the same old uniform and accouterments that have passed through the thick of battle, were worn just as they were fifty years ago. He will also carry the same old musket he used throughout the four years of the war, and which still contains the charge of powder and ball he loaded on the battlefield before Petersburg, Va., shortly before the close of the war.

Mr. Burlingame is from Cleveland, where he has resided for thirty-nine years. He is a past commander of Brooklyn Post, G. A. R. He still retains membership in A. G. Briscoe Post of Westboro, Mass.

Mr. Burlingame was a member of the 1st Massachusetts Heavy Artillery. This regiment was formed as the 14th Massachusetts Infantry and was sent on to Washington. President Lincoln had the regiment reorganized as the 1st Massachusetts Heavy Artillery and stationed it in the forts about the National Capital for a time.

Thousands of Grand Army visitors were entertained Monday for two hours by a concert in the colonnade of the post office by the United States Marine Band.

Chairman Robert N. Harper of the finance committee today announced the following contributions to the fund for entertainment of the G. A. R. Equitable Cooperative Building Association, $50; Ralph W. Lee, $5; Charles W. Butler, $5; Mount Vernon Cafe, $10; Cochran Hotel, $10.

ENCAMPMENT NOTES.

Gen. J. Warren Keifer, a past senior vice commander-in-chief, from Springfield, Ohio, is attending his forty-first encampment out of the forty-nine held. He has been in Washington on each of the four times the boys in blue paraded here, first at the grand review in '65, next in 1892, and later in 1902 and 1905.

Gen. Keifer served fourteen years in Congress and was Speaker of the House in 1881-83, the forty-seventh Congress. He is attending the 6th Corps reunion at Fort Stevens, for his corps was in the fighting, although he himself was wounded at the time. He is to speak at the reunions of the 3d and 4th Corps in Camp Emery.

Gen. Keifer is now eighty years old. He commanded a division as brevet major general.

Col. Andrew Cowan of Louisville is here for the encampment. He was chief of artillery of the 6th Corps when it was one of the most conspicuous figures at the 6th Corps reunion.

In Col. Palmer's personal party from Washington, Iowa, are Mrs. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Living, Mrs. Mrs. Nora Bryson and Mrs. Cora Bell Wilson. The commander-in-chief was given a busy week, according to orders just issued by Col. Charles R. E. Koch, chairman of the national committee of the organization.

C. A. S. Troup of Boston, a member of the Veterans Signal Corps Association, wears what he claims is the only correct badge in the association. The badge bears the crossed flags of the Signal Corps, but instead of two white flags with red squares, one flag on Mr. Troup's badge is red with a white square, the other being white with red square.

"My badge," he said, "is a correct representation of the Signal Corps worn by members of the Signal Corps during the war, as can be seen by the badge I still have and which I wore during the war. It is the only one in the association, and is the only one that is correct."

"When the association was formed and the question of a badge was discussed it was decided to adopt the one showing two crossed white flags with bill is before Congress to have the government purchase the picture.

A meeting of the Iowa delegates was held yesterday in the state headquarters, room 314, the Raleigh, when the official badges were distributed.

The thousands of members of all the patriotic orders attending the receptions in the rotunda of the Capitol this evening will find there beautiful decorations.

In the rotunda arranged around the sides on poles are thirty-six flags, five by nine feet, and twelve flags ten by twenty feet. They represent the forty-eight states. Suspended from the ceiling is a garland flag, twenty by thirty-six feet. These flags are arranged so as not to interfere with the illumination, which requires the use of 1,905 lamps. This is the regular illumination of the rotunda. The Engineers Band will be stationed on the portico during the reception. The portico will be illuminated by sixty lights of large candlepower.

Two powerful searchlights have been installed on the grounds of the west front to give a powerful illumination of the dome. The lens of these are thirty inches in diameter.

Gen. E. W. Whitaker is to be the host at a reception at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Raleigh Hotel to his former comrades of the 1st Connecticut Infantry, the 1st Connecticut Cavalry and the 2d New York Cavalry.

Post 29 of Waltham, Mass., is located at Congress Hall with twenty-six members, three of the Raleigh brothers enlisted in the civil war and five are still living.

Col. Bryan W. Bates, the only member of the Grand Army of the Republic in the island of Porto Rico, is in Washington to attend the forty-ninth national encampment. During the war Col. Bates served in a New York regiment, later serving with a regiment from Illinois. While in Washington Col. Bates is the guest of Capt. Albert H. Van Dusen, chairman of the 1st Army Corps committee.

George G. Meade Post, No. 1, of Philadelphia, has established his headquarters at the Hotel Cochran, 14th and K streets northwest. The post held its campfire in the hotel parlors at 8:30 o'clock last evening. The program included a band concert and serenade, with Mrs. John B. Evans as the principal soloist.

Charles S. Blodgett, department commander of the G. A. R. in South Dakota, has arrived with the delegation from that state and established headquarters at the Hotel Bellevue, corner 15th and I streets northwest. The delegation includes about thirty members of the G. A. R. and twenty-five of the W. R. C. Mrs. Minerva Van Dusen of Aberdeen is department president of this organization and Mrs. Nevada Hereford is secretary. Mr. Blodgett comes from Rapid City.

The Kansas department headquarters are at room 106, New Oxford Hotel, Corwin A. Meek is department commander.

Mrs. Helen Marian Aldrich of Lawrence, Kan., serving this year as national vice president of the Sons of Veterans' Auxiliary, has been an untiring worker in the order for the past five years, and has done what she could in spreading the gospel of patriotism throughout the country.

A pistol, captured by L. Morgan Davis of Alexandria, Va., from a federal soldier at the first battle of Manassas, July 21, 1861, bearing the inscription "Hubbard Smith, from friends," is held by Mr. Davis awaiting a claimant.

Mr. Davis gladly will turn over the weapon to its owner, but he believes it may be the property of one of the veterans attending the Grand Army encampment.

Chairman Robert N. Harper of the finance committee today announced the following contributions to the fund for entertainment of the G. A. R. Equitable Cooperative Building Association, $50; Ralph W. Lee, $5; Charles W. Butler, $5; Mount Vernon Cafe, $10; Cochran Hotel, $10.

Survivors of the 46th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, held a reunion in room 24, Camp Emery, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. A. W. Selfridge is presiding at the affair.

Private Dalzell of Dayton, Ohio, formerly a resident of this city, is here as the representative at large of the G. A. R. of Ohio. He is also a delegate to the National Defense League. He marched in the parade carrying his famous old flag that he takes wherever he goes.

The big granite building housing those departments is open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. in order that visitors may see the special G. A. R. exhibits in the corridors near the entrances to the offices of the three Secretaries. That action was taken by Col. W. W. Harts, superintendent of the building.

Mrs. Jennie Smith, Mrs. Cordella Russell, Mrs. Anna Pomeroy, and Mrs. Mary L. Letch, members of the W. R. C. and Daughters of Veterans, are guests at 23 Iowa circle during the G. A. R. encampment.

There was a "camp" fire night in the lobby of the Raleigh last night, which taxed it to its capacity. "Illinois" was sung by James B. Brown of Quincy, Ill., and "The Star-Spangled Banner" by J. W. Stebbins of Norfolk, Va., past department commander of Virginia-Norfolk. Also sang a solo. He is affiliated with the West Post, No. 25. J. W. Hank, national and department chorister, G. A. R. of Jackson, Ohio, sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "The Old Flag Never Touched the Ground." Others also sang.

A veteran officer of the Confederate army, in an old uniform of gray, wended his way among the "boys in blue" at the West Virginia veterans for their hospitality. Then followed a series of what the veterans termed "rapid-fire talks" by distinguished speakers.

The committee on arrangements consisted of George W. Atkinson, chairman; Gen. W. W. Scott, vice chairman; Col. C. C. Reed, secretary; and Capt. James M. Frey, Capt. James E. Pipe, Capt. J. M. McCauley, Capt. J. F. Stone, Henry S. Baker and A. B. Wells.

TO PRAY FOR PROHIBITION IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Pastors of Federation Agree to Urge Enforcement of Law in Special Sermons.

Prayer meetings in the interest of law enforcement and District prohibition, to begin in the Protestant churches of Washington shortly and continue "until Congress disposes of the prohibition bill for the District or until Congress adjourns," is one of the lines of effort adopted at the first fall meeting of the Pastors' Federation of Washington, which closed at the Y. M. C. A. Monday afternoon.

Andrew Wilson, president of the District Anti-Saloon League, and A. E. Shoemaker, attorney of the league, made addresses.

October 17 the various pastors of the federation are to preach special sermons in the interest of law enforcement and District prohibition. Similar sermons are also to be preached on the third Sunday of each month. Each pastor also plans to appoint five representatives to the District Anti-Saloon League, and this body, with the pastor, will form an executive committee of the league within the church. All church leaders are also asked to place posters about churches telling of the effects of alcohol in the human body.

Other recommendations made to the federation by the District Anti-Saloon League and adopted at the meeting yesterday are as follows:

Pastors urged to assist in the formation of auxiliary leagues in each police precinct, to be made up of the five representatives from each church in the league, and the pastors of the churches located within the precinct, and representatives from any other organization desiring to affiliate.

That one pastor in each denomination be appointed a committee of the federation to inform the other ministers of his denomination of the program, and to use his good offices to carry this or a substituted program into effect.

That systematic support be given to the Anti-Saloon League of the District of Columbia from each church, preferably by placing the Anti-Saloon League in its budget.

Friends School Opens for Year.
